A LEGACY OF CHAMPIONS

In 1919, as the United States emerged from World War I and entered an era of industrial and cultural transformation, the Feinbloom brothers founded Champion.

What began as a maker of collegiate sports uniforms soon expanded beyond the field, outfitting American troops in two world wars, Olympians at the height of competition, and generations of students, workers, and artists.

From the mouse to the moon, from Michael to MoMA, Champion has been woven into the very fabric of American history and culture.

Knickerbocker Knitting Mills is founded in Rochester, NY.

1920

More than 8 million women champion democracy and vote in the U.S. election for the first time after the passage of the 19th Amendment.

1926

Champion Knitwear Mills, Inc. begins providing school uniforms to Wentworth Military Academy. This milestone set the foundation for Champion's enduring tradition of supporting collegiate teams.

1930

Champion began supplying college uniforms for major programs across the U.S.

For 91 years, every major men's and women's college sport was at one time outfitted in Champion uniforms.

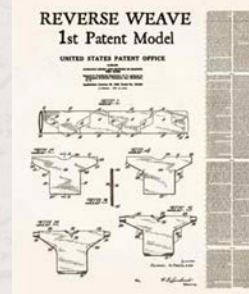

1930's

Champion sponsors women's basketball leagues through its retail stores.

1931

The first Mickey Mouse licensed apparel is created via Champion's Norwich Knitting Mills.

1938

The iconic Reverse Weave sweatshirt is patented to minimize shrinkage.

1941

After the attack on Pearl Harbor in December, Champion supplied the military with T-shirts and sweatshirts featuring unit or base insignias as part of their uniforms throughout the war.

1952

An updated Reverse Weave® design with expansion gussets is patented.

1960

Champion Muhammad Ali wins gold in the light heavyweight division at the Summer Olympics in Rome.

1967

Champion debuts nylon mesh football uniforms, which were worn by SMU's football team in their season opener against Texas A&M.

1966

Champion Roberta "Bobbi" Gibb made history as the first woman to run the Boston Marathon, finishing in 3 hours and 21 minutes—beating half of her male competitors and defying the Boston Athletic Association's claim that women were "not physiologically able" to run more than 1.5 miles.

1968

Champion introduces Lady Champion, revolutionizing women's athletic wear with modern, mix-and-match PE uniforms and gym wear, while continuing its tradition of supporting female athletes with innovative products.

1969

Champion Neil Armstrong carries a Purdue banner made by Champion to the Moon.

1972

Title IX, a landmark federal law prohibiting sex discrimination in any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance, is passed.

1977

Jogbra, the first women's sports bra, is invented by Hinda Miller, Lisa Lindahl, and Polly Palmer Smith.

1978

The Notre Dame basketball team is the first to wear the "C" logo on their uniforms—the first logo to ever appear on college uniforms in the United States.

1980's

Champion becomes the official outfitter of the U.S. Military Academy and collegiate sports teams.

1980's
1990's

Champion Reverse Weave became a staple among hip-hop artists, West Coast skaters, and NYC punks, serving as a canvas for self-expression.

1990

Champion becomes the exclusive outfitter for the NBA, providing jerseys for all teams throughout the 1990s.

1992-2001

Champion's jerseys were proudly worn by the first men's Dream Team, boosting global publicity. Champion outfitted all USA Basketball teams from 1989 to 2001, including the first women's Dream Team in 1996.

2017

The Champion Reverse Weave Hoodie, showcased in MoMA's Items: Is Fashion Modern? exhibit, was recognized for its cultural impact. In 2018, it became part of the museum's permanent collection.

Champion
U.S.A.
The Original Sportswear Brand™

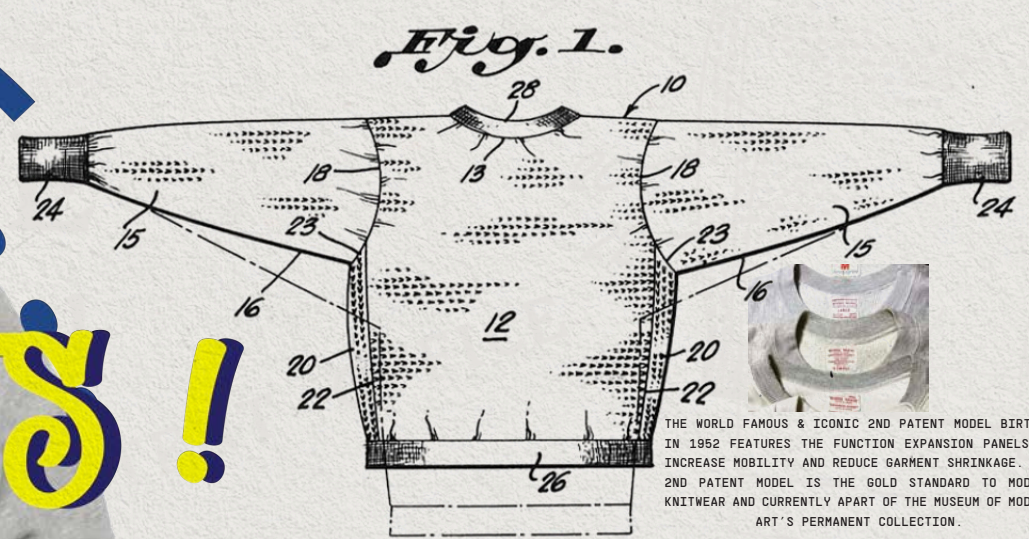

Champion produced the first-ever hoodie in the 1930s for University of Michigan athletes as a warm-up or sideline garment to wear between games and practice sessions. But like all great things, it didn't stay in one lane. Workers wore it. Artists reimagined it. Icons made it legendary. What started as a functional piece became a cultural force, woven into the DNA of sports, style, and self-expression.

OUR GREATNESS IS UNDEFEATED. THE ORIGINAL SPORTSWEAR BRAND™

OUR DNA

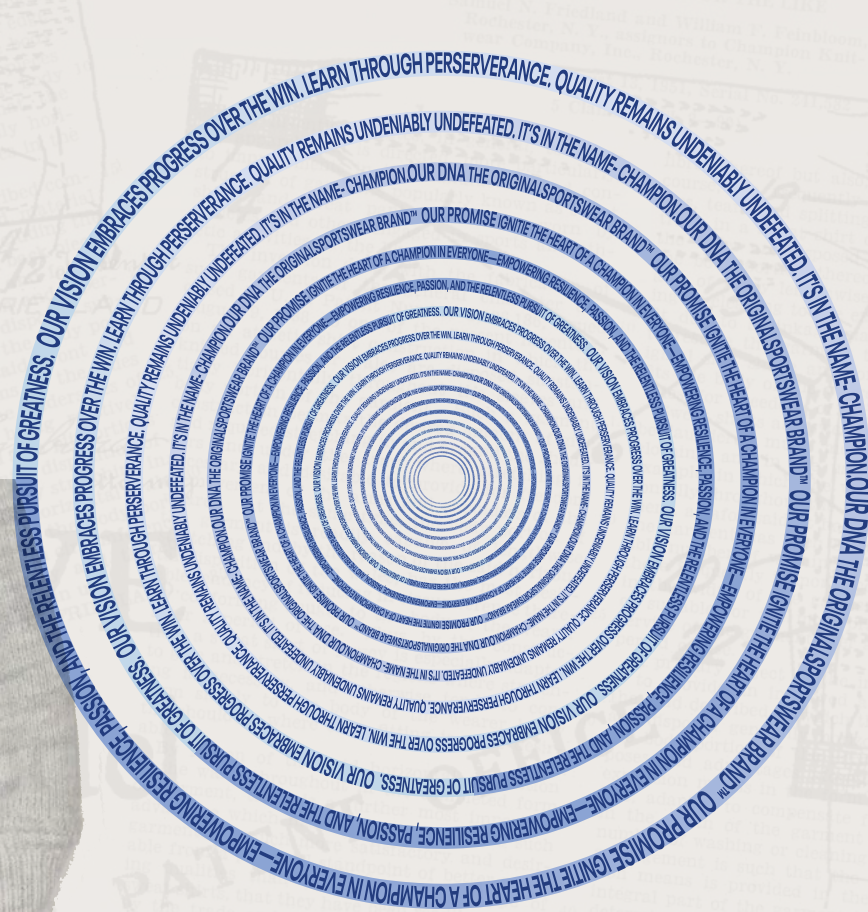

The original sportswear brand.

OUR DEDICATION

Ignite the heart of a champion in everyone—empowering resilience, passion, and the relentless pursuit of greatness.

OUR PLAYBOOK

We embrace progress over the win. Learn through perserverance. Quality undefeated.
It's in the name—CHAMPION!

THE FIRST COLLEGIATE APPAREL

Champion's journey into outfitting university teams began in 1926 with our first major partnership, supplying school uniforms to Wentworth Military Academy. This marked the beginning of our long-standing tradition of supporting collegiate teams.

In 1934 Abe Feinbloom formed a partnership with Moe's Sport Shop to sell collegiate hoodies, sweatshirts, and tees with the University of Michigan insignia. This gave birth to collegiate apparel as we know it and pioneered the popularity of athletic wear as everyday fashion.

THE FIRST COTTON FOOTBALL JERSEY

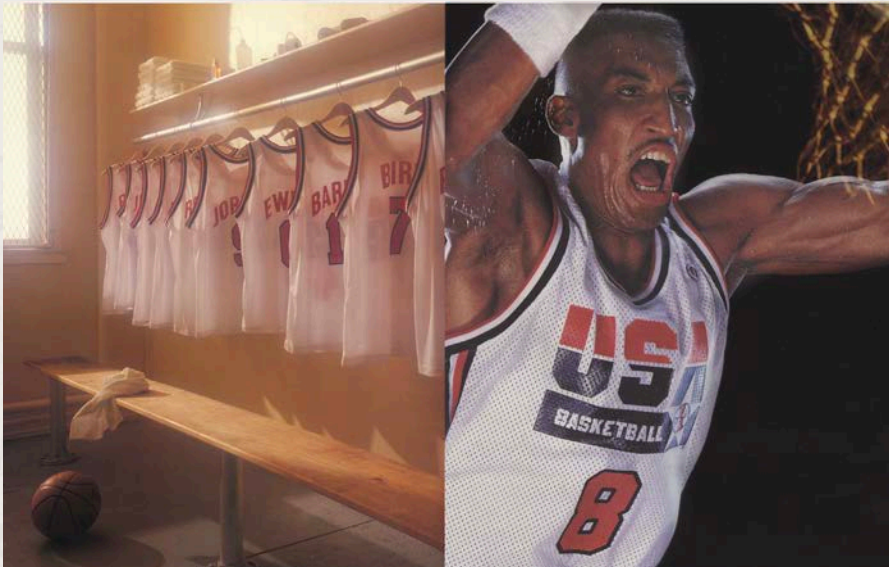

THE FIRST BREATHABLE MESH SHORTS

THE FIRST REVERSIBLE T-SHIRT

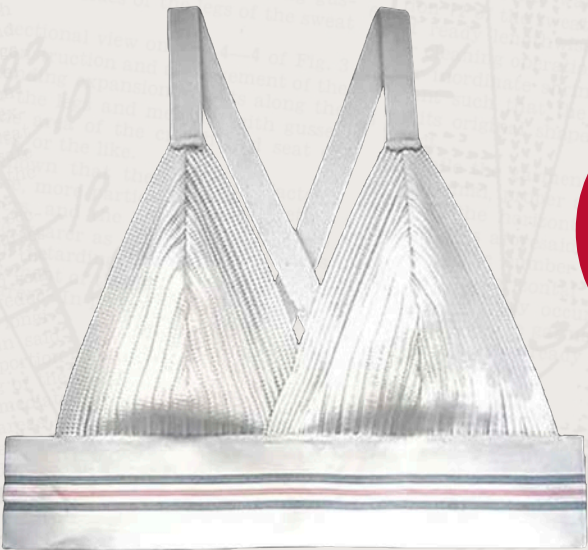

THE FIRST NYLON MESH JERSEY

In 1967, Champion redefined athletic wear once again with the debut of the first mesh nylon jersey, a breakthrough that improved breathability and performance on the field. Quickly embraced beyond football, the lightweight design found its way into basketball, track, and lacrosse, cementing its place in sports history.

THE FIRST SPORTS BRA

In 2022, Lisa Lindahl, Hinda Miller and Polly Smith earned a spot in the National Inventors Hall of Fame for their game-changing invention.

In 1977, women's athletics changed forever with the invention of the first sports bra—the Jogbra®. Offering essential support and replacing uncomfortable traditional bras, this innovation empowered female athletes and sparked future advancements in sportswear.

From the court to the streets, the stage to the studio—Champion is always at the center of culture.
Worn by legends and next-gen icons, it's all about authenticity, style, and legacy.

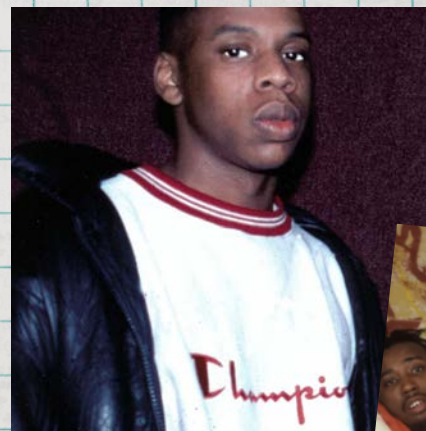

SPORT

Champion has been at the core of sports since day one—gearing up schools, dominating leagues, and making history on Olympic podiums. We've dressed some of the most epic moments in Sports history

MUSIC

Champion has been at the forefront of music culture for decades, embraced by artists who use fashion as a statement of authenticity and style. From hip-hop pioneers in the '90s to today's chart-topping icons, the brand has been a staple in music videos, on stage, and in the streets.

FASHION

Champion maintains cultural relevance by partnering with influential fashion designers, blending its classic athletic heritage with contemporary streetwear aesthetics and high-fashion innovation.

"I remember my older, cooler cousins wearing Champion sweatshirts and shorts in the seventies, cementing that logo in my brain."

ART

Art collaborations have allowed us to maintain our cultural relevance while embracing artistic creativity. We support the creative community. The community of culture.

IN GOOD COMPANY

Champion continues to impact culture, forging incredible partnerships with today's best brands, creatives, and directional fashion houses. Since our emergence in inner city culture through the 1980's Champion has been the preferred garment for brands such as Stussy, Supreme, Kith, Coca-Cola, Off-White, Harley-Davidson. Merging the worlds of art, pop, and fashion with Champion's authentic, American sports heritage, iconic pieces become a canvas of expression that inspire everyone to Be Your Own Champion.

As at its start, innovation and experimentation are still a part of Champion today.

Not content with sitting on a tried and tested product catalog, the label continues to push boundaries through collaboration and continuing to self-challenge.

Every Champion was once a beginner.

OUR CREDO

Champions aren't made in gyms.
They are born from a flame that burns deep within—a desire, a dream, a vision.

The journey of a champion isn't just about winning.
It's about showing up and giving everything they have.

Champions don't listen to cynics,
they don't play it safe—they go down swinging.

On the battlefield of life, a champion stands as a beacon of resilience and indomitable will.

A champion's greatest victory is to conquer themselves.
It is not a title bestowed;
it is an action taken.

The Champion brand is the armor of the brave, the shield of the determined, the badge of those who dare to turn the tide of fate.

This is our legacy. This is our future.

United, we fight till the end.
We are the champions of the world.
